It Doesn't Recite Poetry Or Cook Your Dinner But The Navy Finds It Handy

BY NANCY LOFTON

It is doubtful that an army of mathematicians brandishing slide rules will ever attack the binary computer, fearing it will put them out of work. The sort of work done by a computer is sought by no mathematician in his right mind. The work of computers is like the work of Psyche, separating endless bushels of millet seed from endless bushels of wheat, or like the work of seven maids with seven mops, mopping for seven years. A computer competitor would have to add two twelve digit numbers in one fortieth of a second. That is the capability of a very slow computer similar to the one recently added to the faculty of the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey.

Mechanical contrivances such as washing machines, windup toys, gyroscopic tops, adding machines, automatic electric toasters and computers have fascinated me even before Life Magazine, Dr. William Menninger and Norbert Weiner began to worry about a society in which people lived surrounded by devices they couldn't operate, didn't understand and with which they couldn't compete. When I heard a new binary computer had been added to the Naval Postgraduate School I called for permission to see it.

I was received by Professor W. R. Church, Professor J. C. Chaney and Professor C. L. Perry who beamed with an almost paternal pride over their computer. Dr. Perry stayed by my side and for the next hour led me through a maze that dazzled me.

There, first, was the computer. Its main body is a metal box about four feet across, six feet high and eight feet deep. On its face were a large number of dials, lights, symbols and cabalistic knobs. Attached to it by cables was a desk in which were built a typewriter and a control panel. This I saw at first, but I learned later there were many other accessories, such as an auxiliary memory which may be plugged into the machine when it is faced with more data than it is equipped to handle.

Do It In A Week Red Cross Drive Is In Full Swing

Carmel Red Cross opened its annual fund drive on Tuesday morning with a breakfast at Legion Hall at 9:00 o'clock.

Workers and captains gathered to receive final instructions, while enjoying coffee and doughnuts served by the Canteen workers.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Walter Nielsen, Chapter Chairman, who introduced the Reverend Angus Dun, Jr., whose invocation gave inspiration to the workers.

Frank Putnam, former chairman, gave a short talk, pointing out the urgency of the work and the necessity of completing the campaign in the week's time to which Red Cross of Carmel has committed itself this year.

This year's goal is $25,312.00, of which approximately $6,000.00 has already been collected by advance mail solicitation to previous donors and out-of-town property owners.

G. O. P. Endorses Silliman Democrats Draft Fred Farr Ed Tickle May Withdraw

Last night at a meeting in Salinas, the Republican Central Committee endorsed James Silliman over Ed Tickle as party candidate for state senator in the special election to be held May 3.

The vote was Silliman 12, Tickle 9, one abstaining.

Tuesday night at a nominating convention in Salinas the Democrats drafted Fred Farr, Carmel attorney, to run under their sponsorship for the senate.

Carmel Council Has Open Mind, Closed Mouth On Fire Dist.

"They listened," is about all J. O. Handley, R. R. West and James Belvail will be able to report to the county supervisors on the exploratory conference they had with the Carmel City Council February 24, when they tried to discover if Carmel would be willing to enter into a mutual aid agreement for fire protection with the unincorporated areas.

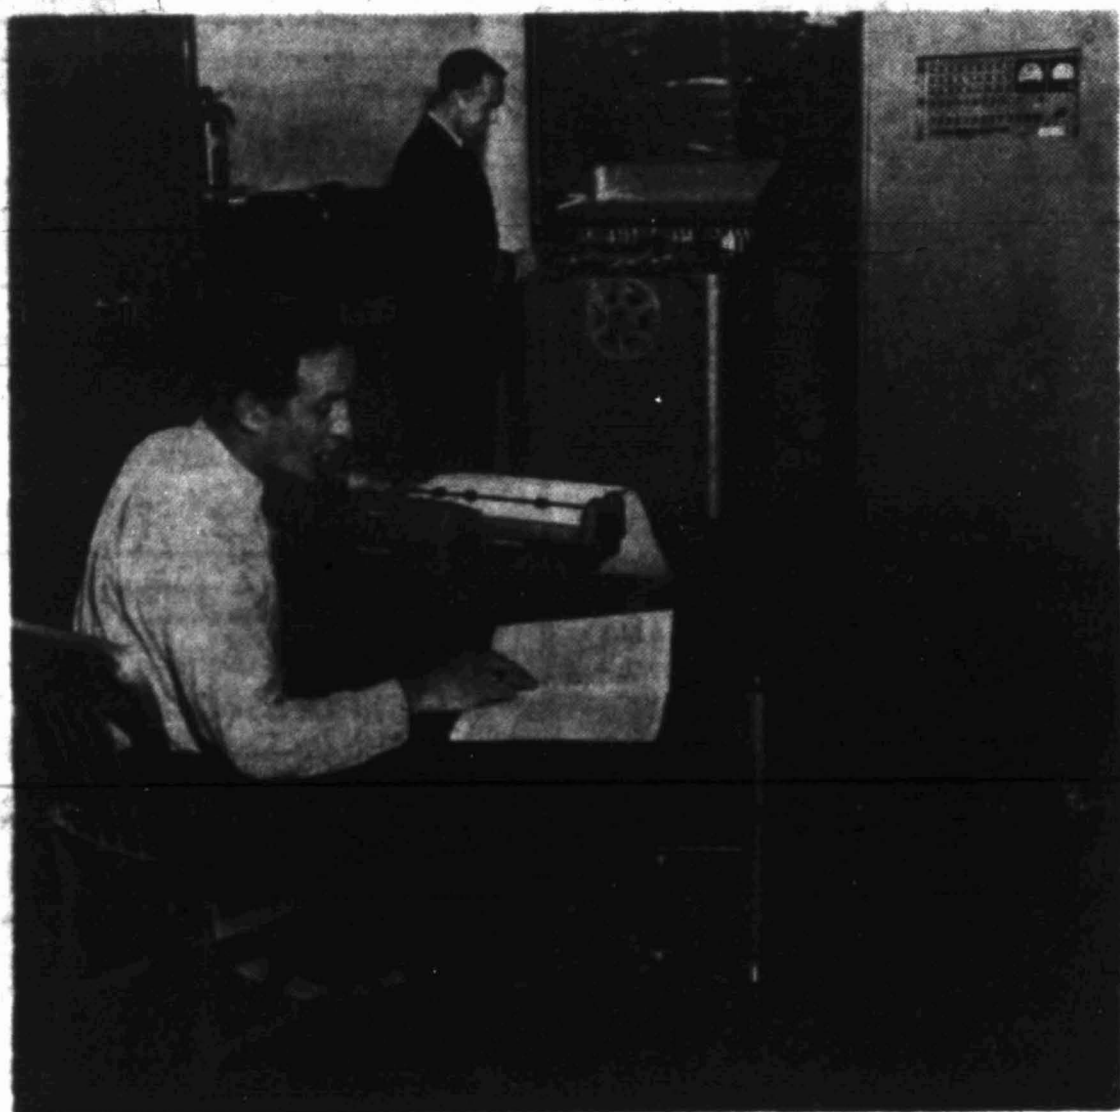

The proposition: the adjacent areas would furnish to the city one extra pumper to be owned by the district but housed and operated by the city. The adjacent areas would reimburse the city for three extra full time paid firemen.

The Mayor said he had an open mind and would continue to listen. Councilwoman Geraldine Smith thought that the proposition should be put up to the Carmel voters. Fire Chief Vincent Torras reported that the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department thinks the agreement would strengthen the Carmel Department.

Nothing further can be done until a fire district has been formed in the unincorporated area.

WOMEN'S CHORUS IN VESPERS CONCERT SUN.

The Monterey Peninsula Women's Chorus, directed by John Farr, will be featured at the evening Lenten vespers concert Sunday at 5:00 o'clock at All Saints' Church. Daniel Marshall will be the organist, and Mrs. Carl Daniels, soprano, will be soloist with the chorus. The half-hour musical program will be followed by a service of evening prayer.

3-Day Hoop Tournament Starts 4:30 Today With Gonzales-Gilroy Fracas

Geared for fast action and loaded with natural rivalry, the Eighth Annual Carmel Basketball Tournament gets under way at the High School Gymnasium this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock as the Gonzales Spartans tackle the B Division Champions from Gilroy High. This will be the third meeting between these two clubs this year, Gilroy winning the first match and the Spartans coming back to edge Hagen's champs in an overtime thriller.

Tonight's 6:00 o'clock game should be one of the best in the entire tournament as the Monterey Toreadores tangle with the Fremont Indians. Both teams rate high in prep circles and have comparable season records.

Host Carmel tackles Coach Wayne Dawson's King City quintet in tonight's 7:30 game which can also be rated a toss-up off previous action. King City holds a pair of narrow one-point verdicts over the Padres this season but the red and grey Carmel lads were in contention all the way. The Mustangs have the identical team which went to the finals of the 1954 tournament and they are anxious to reach the winner's bracket again this year. A pair of all-league selections, Frank Padilla and Tasos Melitis, spearhead the King City attack which features strong outside shooting and moving screens. Except for Padilla, the King City team is an (Continued on Page Eleven)

Teaching More Exciting Than Lion Hunting Say New Arrivals From Africa

BY VIRGINIA SHAW

Two brisk and cheerful English women sat in the Pine Cone office Tuesday animatedly exchanging pleasantries, which is not in the least unusual, except that the ladies were chattering in Luganda, a dialect sounding a little like a softly musical mixture of French, Castilian and Arabic with a frosting of extra vowels.

Luganda is one of seven African dialects spoken fluently by Miss Margaret McGrath and her sister, Miss Catherine McGrath, who prefers to go under her pen name of Catherine Eastwood. They settled last week in Carmel after 25 years of teaching in Uganda, Kenya, Tanganyika and other British territories and protectorates in Africa, and still have occasional difficulty in finding the precise English word for something which they can instantly verbalize in the language of these places.

Miss McGrath, small and rosy, and Miss Eastwood, taller and more angular, can't recall precisely what took them from their native Manchester to Africa in the first place—"I think a friend of ours had been there and described it enthusiastically," said Miss McGrath. (Continued on Page Twelve)

Both Tickle and Silliman had announced their candidacy several weeks ago and appeared before the Republican Committee last night to ask for endorsement.

The group, in an all inclusive motion, decided to hold a secret ballot, and that the candidate receiving the least number of votes be asked to withdraw in favor of the one receiving the majority.

Silliman spoke of his record during eight years in the state legislature and his unanimous election as speaker in asking for committee recommendation, reminding the group that when he ran unsuccessfully for lieutenant governor in the general election, he carried one county, Monterey.

He said that if the vote went in favor of Tickle, he would be willing to withdraw his candidacy provided that all of the committee voted without exception. (There was one committee member absent because of illness; another, out of the county, had sent in a ballot by mail which was allowed in the voting. Silliman felt that if one absent member could vote, the other should be heard from. However, the matter did not come to a contest since the balloting favored Silliman.)

Tickle spoke of his record as state senator and his service to the party as state central committee chairman. He said that he had resigned because of business and health considerations but now that his business affairs were in order and his health regained he was available to serve the party and the voters. But he could not withdraw immediately if the balloting went against him since he would have to consult the wishes of the 250 people who had signed his nomination petition, "many of them Democrats."

When the vote was counted, Silliman and the committee agreed that in view of Tickle's statement before the balloting, he could not be asked to withdraw until he had had time to discuss it with his supporters.

Another meeting of the committee will be held Monday night in supervisors' chambers in Salinas when the party will make its campaign plans. At that time, Tickle told the Pine Cone this morning, he will be prepared to announce his decision. "I shall do what is best for the party and the voters," he said.

The Democrats in their Tuesday meeting chose their candidate by convention rather than committee vote, electing Farr 46 over 25 for Earl Widemann, Gonzales rancher. The latter said he would abide by the decision of the convention and give his support to Farr. William K. Stewart, Pacific Grove attorney, withdrew in favor of Farr before the convention voted.

Always Old, Always New, Pine Inn Is Something Special In Carmel Scene

Local residents had the opportunity Monday of seeing the newly-remodeled east wing of Pine Inn, when Harrison Godwin had open house for a large group of friends.

The remodeling, at a cost of around $75,000, includes enlargement of many of the rooms, additions of bathrooms and dressing rooms to others and rejuvenation of the shops connected with the building.

Godwin purchased the hotel in 1940 from John Jordan, who had owned it for many years and his first remodeling job began in December of that year when he closed the establishment for three months and gave it a complete face-lifting and added shops, as well as the present patio.

The hotel was first opened in 1902 by the Carmel Development Company, J. F. Devendorf and Frank Powers. A few years later, Mrs. Agnes Signor, Harrison and Fred Godwin's aunt, lost three hotels in the San Francisco earthquake. She came to Carmel at that time and took over the management of the Carmel Hotel, located at the corner of Ocean and San Carlos. This was later sold and moved down the hill to become a part of Pine Inn. She then leased La Playa Hotel, which is now owned by Fred.

The first manager of Pine Inn was a Miss Morgan and the first chef was Pon Sing. He had come to Carmel to be cook for Mrs. Frank Powers, but as their house was not yet completed she loaned him to the Inn for the summer.

In 1927, John Jordan added more rooms to the building and completely renovated it. Later he built Lobos Lodge, which was run as part of the Inn before it was sold to Tirey Ford.

Before going into the hotel business, Harrison was connected with Del Monte Properties Company from 1921 to 1929 and from 1935 until he purchased the hotel. In his earlier days he was sports cartoonist for the Los Angeles Examiner and during the years when he lived in San Francisco he was active in sports promotion in the Bay Area. At one time he was a professional baseball player in Canada, which later accounted for the fact that he was one of the stars in Carmel's Abalone League.

Throughout the years, with all the other remodeling and additions, Pine Inn has always maintained its individuality, charm and good taste, qualities which are too often neglected in many commercial hotels. It is to Harrison Godwin's credit that he has been able to maintain these qualities which have made his establishment famous throughout the world.

Annual Meeting Of Carmel Foundation

Just what does the Carmel Foundation do? What are its objectives?

These and other questions will be answered during the Foundation's annual meeting next Thursday afternoon, March 10, at 3:00 o'clock in the Parish House of All Saints' Church.

Girl Scouts Offer Prize With Cookies In Sale Next Week

The Girl Scouts of the Monterey Peninsula will sell cookies and candy next week to augment their funds for the year's Scout program. In Carmel, the 220 Scouts and Brownies, dressed in freshly starched uniforms, will call on their neighbors and friends, offering a choice of two types of cookies and a delicious chocolate candy mixture. On Saturday, March 12, these goodies will also be on sale at several places downtown.

A new feature this year is the lucky number prize to be awarded to a purchaser of cookies by the case (12 boxes in a case). The prize, a beautiful bake-proof cookie jar, made especially for the Scouts by Virginia Blair Hannon, will be on display during the week in Putnam and Raggett's window on Ocean Avenue, and on Monday, March 14, will be presented to the lucky winner, following the drawing at the Carmel Girl Scout House at 4:00 o'clock. The winner does not have to be present.

FRENCH ACTRESS FOR LA CAUSERIE

Carine d'Arcy, French actress and monologist, will be guest artist at the meeting of La Causerie Francaise to be held at 8:00 o'clock Saturday night at the Carmel Art Association Gallery.

Mlle. d'Arcy, who received her training at the Conservatory of Lyon, is well known in France for her appearances on the stage and in television, and has played in several motion pictures opposite such stars as Jean Gabin. Her program, Saturday will include poetry readings and monologues as well as a scene from the play, The Madwoman of Chaillot.

All Causerie members and their guests are invited to be present for this outstanding program.

Elks Lodge Show Opens Tonight

Tonight, tomorrow and Saturday night, the Monterey Elks Lodge will stage a variety musical show, Covers Up, at the Pacific Grove High School Auditorium. The show, an annual affair, this year will be for the benefit of the Monterey Youth Center.

The musical is under the direction of Barney Elmore, professional director, whose most recent Hollywood stint was working in Bing Crosby's latest picture, Country Girl. Along with dancing numbers, the show will include songs and humorous skits. The cast, all local, will be attractively costumed. The show has always been a popular one on the Peninsula, and proceeds are each year devoted to a charitable cause.

Detective Story Is Next Production Of Guildhall Players

Detective Story, the next play to be presented in the Guildhall, will open on March 4 to play Fridays and Saturdays of three successive weekends, it was announced by Cole Weston, director. The powerful drama by Sidney Kingsley was a recent hit on Broadway and in the movies. The local production by the Guildhall Players may well turn out to be one of the most stimulating dramatic events in Peninsula theatre in quite some time. An excellent set for Detective Story has been designed and built by Ric Masten, and the problems of using a large cast on a small stage are worked out in a most interesting and unusual fashion.

Since the last Guildhall production of Escape, a great deal has been done to both auditorium and stage. The Forest Theater Guild which operates the Guildhall now has an excellent place for indoor, year-round dramatic productions in addition to the famous outdoor amphitheater.

The cast of Detective Story includes both well-known faces and a number of newcomers, in accordance with Guildhall policy. Sam Karas is making his first appearance on a stage as Lt. Monaghan, and promises an excellent performance. Other principals are Grace Carol Kearney as Mary McLeod, Jim Hare as McLeod, Marjorie Munk as the Shoplifter, Floyd Adams, Jr. as Arthur, and Mary Carroll as Susan. There are many smaller but excellent roles in Detective Story, among them that of Lewis, played by Harry Klekas of Fort Ord, Charlie by Ric Masten, and Callaghan by Buck Williams of Monterey.

Girl Scout Benefit Features Japanese Art, Music, Dances

Authentic Japanese music and dances by entertainers garbed in traditional costumes will be an added attraction to the Girl Scout benefit exhibition of Japanese art and antiques to be held Saturday and Sunday from 12:00 to 5:00 o'clock at the House of the Four Winds in Monterey.

On display will be the collection of Japanese prints, scrolls, handicrafts, homewares, dolls, ceramics and other rare objects both ancient and modern belonging to Capt. and Mrs. Charles Tod Singleton of Monterey. Capt. Singleton is head of the Engineering Division of the Naval Postgraduate School.

Japanese entertainment will be offered at 2:00, 3:00 and 4:00 o'clock both days of the exhibit. Dances will be performed by Miss Akimi Ito of Seaside, a member of the Girl Scouts, and Mrs. Alice Satow, secretary to the head of the Far Eastern Division of the Army Language School. Singers will be Miss Yoshi Takahashi, Mrs. Kaoru Shimizu and Mrs. Kiri Greaney, all members of the Japanese Department faculty at the ALS.

Japanese tea and cakes will be served throughout the afternoon on Saturday and Sunday. Decorations will be in the form of flower arrangements and Japanese printing by Mr. and Mrs. Eilyn Katoh, assisted by Mrs. Brayton Witherell, while Mrs. Thomas Tanimoto, an authority on Japanese flower arrangements, has designed the floral centerpiece for the tea table.

The show is a benefit for the Monterey Peninsula Girl Scout Council. Mrs. M. W. Munk is general chairman of the event, assisted by Mrs. Walter Burde. Committee heads are Mrs. J. A. Daigle, entertainment; Mrs. Carl Menneken, tea; Mrs. G. F. Kinney and Mrs. George Leutzinger, tickets. Serving on the tea committee will be the Mesdames Frank La Cauza, Earl Schreiber, Adrian Bennett, R. P. Wenzlik, C. A. Metz, Cecil Murphy, Robert Kvenild and Roderick Wilson. Seventh and eighth grade and senior Girl Scouts will help out in various capacities.

John Tirey Hook Joins Police Force

The Carmel Police Department, which always gets its man, finally found John Tirey Hook to fill the vacancy in the force left by the retirement of Andy Del Monte.

New Patrolman Hook, who started work with the department on Tuesday, is a Carmelite from way back, processed through Sunset School and Carmel High. He left the high school in 1945 to join the Navy, subsequently served three years as second mechanic in the flight crew of a coastal patrol bomber based at San Diego.

He received his high school diploma shortly after his release from the Navy in 1948 and continued his training in aeronautics at Cal Aero technical school in Los Angeles, studying civilian aircraft and helicopter mechanics. Hook later joined the Air Force Cadet Corps program, and was stationed until his discharge last November at Harlingen Air Base in Texas.

Officer Hook, who is 27 years old and unmarried, is the son of Mrs. Mary Henderson of Carmel Valley.

It Doesn't Recite Poetry Or Cook Your Dinner, Navy Finds It Handy

(Continued from Page One) which some thirty commands may be typed to the computer, Professor Perry led me first to an attachment which indicates on a lighted grid what is going on inside, and then to the machine itself. Opening its side I was confronted with a bewildering tangle of wires and tubes. Instead of vacuum tubes this electronic computer has a large number of germanium tubes in its interior. This model possesses 8000 of them which cost about $1.65 (now 85c) apiece. Below the tubes and the endless wires the memory, a drum on which there is a magnetic coating similar to magnetic tape used in recorders. There was even a one horsepower motor to drive a cooling fan when the going got tough.

Returning to the desk, Professor Perry suggested I might like to hear the machine at work. Reaching in a drawer, he turned an amplifier switch and the room was filled with a ringing buzz, da-da-da-da-da. "The long tone comes when it's going around a loop," said Professor Perry. I still don't know what he meant. I never know whether mathematicians are speaking figuratively or literally. "What is it working on?" I asked him. "A parabolic partial differential equation," he replied. I began to feel I had been right to be nervous about meeting this creation.

Patiently, it was explained to me that the machine was an invaluable aid to engineering students who must deal with complicated formulas relating to pressure inside engines, wing design and the behavior of metals under varying conditions. Without the binary computer they would have to spend endless hours in mechanical work. The machine can perform calculations one thousand times faster than the human brain. It is extremely useful in the analysis of vast quantities of statistical data in which a human mathematician might spend his whole life. It can sort out and find correlations in data consisting of 104 columns of figures with 370 items in each column. It uses the simplest of arithmetical processes, addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, most of which it reduces to an additive process. Many mathematical processes, I learned, can be reduced to simple arithmetic.

Electronic computers generally work on the principal of two stable states, such as on or off, or a high voltage versus a low voltage. This one works on a high voltage versus a low one, there being 25 volts difference between the two. This means, I was informed, the machine must work with two digits only, one and zero.

To one accustomed to a numerical system in which there are ten digits, zero through nine, this was confusing, but the keepers of the machine tried to straighten me out. It is called a binary computer because it works on the binary numerical system with two digits. Any third grader knows that when a number is moved from one column to the next column on the left it is multiplied by ten. Not so in the binary system. When a number is moved from one column to the next on the left it is multiplied by two. Thus 1 is one, but 2 becomes 10 and 3 becomes 11, in the language used by the binary computer, one being represented by a high voltage and zero by the low voltage. This I understood, but now my mentors introduced a further complication. In order, I believe, to handle decimals a modification of the binary system is necessary. The binary system is combined with an octal system in which the binary symbols of one and zero are used in groups of three. 001 is one, speaking both binarily and octally. 110 is six. 111 is seven and then the process begins again with eight being represented by 1,000. It's an interesting game to play, like trying to stand on your head to see how things look upsidedown. The machine has an automatic translating device so that standard numbers are used in issuing orders to it, which it then miraculously translates into its own curious language.

A simple order to this brainy child of the National Cash Register Company might be typed out on its order sheet like this: 0010 35 000000010003. This would be interpreted as follows. A section of the apparatus known as cell 0010 would be activated. 35 is code for adding. The next four digits refer to a specific cell the contents of which are to be added to the contents of the cell represented by the next four digits. Having added these two numbers which have previously been placed in these two cells, the machine will obey the final stage of the instruction which is to place the sum in the cell represented by the final group of four digits. There the sum will rest until it is required later in a problem. When a number is required at a given place in a problem the machine is ordered to scan its memory until it reaches a given cell from which it will extract the contents desired. Or at a given place in a problem the machine may be ordered to scan a memory cell in which is another command in the form of a coded number. This coded number may be any of the 25 commands the machine is capable of obeying. It may say "Add", "Subtract", "Halt" or "Print". If, however, the command is "Print" it must be indicated whether the printing is to be in the octal system, the decimal system or alphabetically. Someone, of course, has to decide these matters. With each machine there goes at least one programmer.

The programmer is the man who breaks down complicated mathematical problems into the sort of food compatible with the machine's digestion. He is an editor and a simplifier, a Reader's Digest type of mathematician. He is also a mapmaker. He must plan what parts of the machine may best be used for various parts of a given problem. New fields of research are opening up concerned with the more efficient use of computers, the best ways of solving problems, the merits of using this section of the machine as opposed to another, and in what sequence. The program manager usually plots his course ahead of time, works out his procedure and his commands and then has the machine punch them all on a tape. This tape, when fed into the computer, may keep it happily at work for hours. It will keep it at work indefinitely if the programmer forgets to conclude with a halt command. Endlessly repeating its processes the machine will wander all over its memory looking for a "halt" command, unable to stop until it is told to do so or blows out a tube.

These are things the binary computer can do, commands it can execute. It can compare magnitudes. It can compare numbers algebraically. It can shift magnitudes. It can shift the entire contents of one cell to another, more favorably located for the solution of a particular step in a problem. Perhaps its greatest single advantage is that it can be instructed to modify commands in the light of succeeding steps in a problem. Working by an iterative process, repeating each step numerous times before progressing to the next, the machine can be instructed to perform, for example, a series of six commands in which the repeated performance of the latter three commands will each time modify the first three commands as the machine completes its cycle.

"This machine does pretty well," commented Sidney F. Freshour, the mathematician at work planning the next problem. "It has only one kind of sensory receptor, you know, just a typewriter. That is the only way it receives information from the outside world. If it had as many receptors as you—eyes and ears and nose—it could accomplish a lot more."

As I was leaving in a rather humble daze the engineer employed by the National Cash Register Company to keep the computer in working order came in. His name is Norman Bernstein and he visits the computer once a day to check its operations. He seemed in no awe at all of this machine. "I thought he must have at least his doctorate from MIT. 'Where did you go to school?' I asked. 'Never went to school,' he replied. 'When I was in the army they sent me to radio school.' I don't know whether I believe that or not.

Bloodmobile Coming On Thursday For Quarterly Bank

Red Cross workers are getting in touch with previous blood donors for the Blood Bank, which will be in Carmel on March 10, from 10:00 o'clock in the morning until 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

Newcomers to town, and people who have not previously donated blood, are requested to join in this service to the community. The blood is used in the local hospitals for the benefit of local people. No charge is ever made for Red Cross blood; the only charges are the hospital's routine fee for laboratory work and equipment used.

A buffet lunch is served by the Canteen to all people who give up their noon lunch hour for the purpose of giving their blood.

Phone Carmel Red Cross, 7-6921, to be assigned a specific time.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

This next week, March 7-14, has been proclaimed by the Governor as Conservation Week. It will be the 21st observance of this week which is sponsored by the California Conservation Council, a state-wide organization with headquarters in Santa Barbara. It is coming of age this year.

The Regional Office of the U. S.

Forest Service in San Francisco has just issued a news release, pointing out that "conservation is the responsibility of each and every one of us . . . a year-round responsibility, but renewed emphasis is appropriate each year beginning on Arbor Day, March 7, as a reminder that wise use of our resources is of vital concern to everyone". The release goes on to state that "our abundant natural resources, water, soil, forests and wildlife, are our real source of security and strength. This rich heritage is not ours alone; we are but stewards of a rich estate which we pass on to generations yet unborn".

During the past year I have tried to point out these facts in various ways in this weekly column, Conservation on the March. The next column will be the first one of the second year. Its title was selected to convey some idea of the dynamic quality of the modern conservation movement. Although conservation is concerned with the proper use of "our abundant resources, water, soil, forests and wildlife", as mentioned in the Forest Service release, it is also concerned with the intangible benefits resulting from contacts with wilderness. These are harder to define but in the long run are more important than the merely material resources.

The Forest Service release speaks of "this rich heritage". A new magazine, now being advertised quite extensively, is entitled American Heritage. This seems to be devoted almost entirely to historical matters, with no mention whatever of our wilderness heritage. Our social and political heritage is certainly important but our wilderness heritage goes back even farther in time and the intangible values inherent in it are more permanent in character. They do not change with the changes in direction of social and political winds. They are as old as the world and as enduring as eternity.

The interest of the National Parks Association in wilderness has led to the recent reprinting from its magazine of an article by Sigurd F. Olson, the present president, entitled "We Need Wilderness". This is illustrated with some fine photographs by Devereux Butcher, editor and Field Representative of the Association. It is one of the best statements that I know of the value and meaning of the intangible benefits from wilderness contacts. I have a supply of these reprints and shall be glad to send a copy to anyone on request. Write to Conservation on the March, Carmel Pine Cone, Box G-1, Carmel.

News of Mike Monohan

Next week is one Mike Monohan has been looking forward to for a long time. After two years in the Navy, he gets his discharge. He's been stationed with the chaplain's department at the Naval Training Center in San Diego.

Mike and his wife, Sherry, will continue to live in San Diego so he can continue with his theatre work in that area. His most recent achievement in the theatrical world came last month, when a play put on by his little theatre group walked off with eight awards in the Little Theatre League play tournament. In addition, Mike got the trophy for best supporting actor in the tournament, playing the part of a 16-year-old English schoolboy. Judges were Dr. James Butler, chairman of the USC drama department; Ralph Freud, chairman of the theatre arts department at UCLA, and Leon Lord, executive director of the Geller Theatre Workshop in Hollywood.

Mike's seriously considering entering the Geller Workshop next fall for a two-year course. Meanwhile, he'll be busy with a new show going into immediate production in San Diego, with Mike in the lead role, and several other local plays in prospect. This busy schedule won't allow time for a visit home to Carmel anywhere in the very near future, but Mike's mother, Mrs. Bruce Monohan, plans to move down to San Diego to join her son and daughter-in-law sometime this summer.

Sporting Event and Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Bob B. Baird will open their house to members of the Pebble Beach Sports Car Club for a buffet dinner following the club's rally Sunday afternoon.

All club members and their guests, as well as prospective members, are invited to the rally and dinner. The motoring event, a combination tour and reliability run, gets underway at 1:00 o'clock, with contestants to leave from the S. P. Depot in Monterey. The dinner will begin at approximately 5:00 o'clock.

Bewleys' Boy

The Carmel Valley population census was increased by one last week with the birth of a baby son to Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bewley of Lower Private Road. The baby, who arrived at Peninsula Hospital, has been named Charles.

Col. Stilwell Sees A-Blast

Col. Joseph W. Stilwell, Jr., son of Mrs. J. W. Stilwell of Carmel Point, was a close witness to the recent atomic bomb test at Camp Desert Rock, Nevada.

Col. Stilwell was one of 5,000 soldiers specially selected to observe the big blast. His post was a trench about 4000 yards from the actual explosion. The exercise in which he participated was the Army's part of the Atomic Energy Commission's "Operation Teapot," a series of spring atomic tests.

Now regularly stationed at Fort Benning, Georgia, Col. Stilwell last year returned from a tour of duty in Japan. He is a 1933 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

Mrs. Ross' Daughter Visits

Visiting this week with Mrs. Edith Ross is her daughter, Mrs. Morris Bolinger of Methow, Washington. They were joined over the weekend by Mrs. Bolinger's son, Pvt. Morris S. Bolinger, who recently completed his basic training at Fort Ord. It will be Pvt. Bolinger's last visit in some while with his mother and grandmother, as early this week he and the Carrier Company to which he belongs were flown to New Jersey and will shortly sail for Europe and assignment somewhere in Germany.

Mrs. Ross and her guest plan to leave Carmel temporarily this weekend to visit another daughter, Mrs. Norman Swall, in Manhattan Beach. They will return here next week and Mrs. Bolinger plans to continue her California stay until March 14. She and her mother are being widely entertained during her visit here.

Teague in National Academy

Donald Teague, N.A., Carmel painter, is represented in the 130th annual exhibition of the National Academy of Design at the Academy's galleries on Fifth Avenue in New York. The show includes 282 exhibits, oils, drawings, watercolors, prints and sculpture by 165 members and 91 non-members from 22 states.

Teague, a member of the Academy, has had his work displayed in major galleries and museums throughout the country. He is the president of the Carmel Art Association and a frequent exhibitor at the Carmel gallery.

The National Academy is the oldest art group in New York City; its first president having been Samuel F. B. Morse.

Ferrantes to Italy

After a week of bon voyage parties in their honor given by their many relatives and friends on the Peninsula, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ferrante left Carmel Monday afternoon for the first leg of a trip abroad.

Excitement ran high prior to their departure, since the trip is not only the Ferrantes' first overseas tour but Mrs. Ferrante's first experience in a plane as well. The couple arrived in San Francisco Monday night, where they were greeted by their daughter, Alice, who is studying at Stanford. The threesome were joined for dinner by Mr. Ferrante's sister, Mrs. Paul Territo of Redwood City, and her two daughters, Marilyn and Paula. Only member of the family who had been unable to come down for any of the farewell parties was the Ferrantes' other daughter, Ann (Mrs. John H. Bourquin), who wired goodbyes from Anchorage, Alaska, where she and her husband are living.

Despite reported blizzards, the Ferrantes arrived in New York Tuesday morning after a safe cross-country air passage. This noon, they will sail for Italy aboard the Italian liner Andrea Doria, and by next weekend they'll be on foreign soil for the first time.

The ship lands in Naples, and from there the Ferrantes planned to proceed directly to Palermo, Sicily, for a two-week visit with members of the Ferrante family. They'll return to Naples around the first of April, and will spend the rest of their trip touring Florence, Rome and Northern Italy.

The return voyage will be aboard the Constitution, leaving Italy June 1, and after another brief stay in New York the Ferrantes will return home to Carmel, expecting to arrive here around the middle of June.

Audubon March Meeting

The March meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will take place Friday night at 8:00 o'clock in the Carmel High School Library.

Speaker at tomorrow's meeting will be Howard Feder, graduate student at Hopkins Marine Station, who will discuss the feeding habits of starfish, and show slides.

Art Association Reception

New members and associate members of the Carmel Art Association attended a reception Sunday evening to meet the new president of the association, Donald Teague, and other officers installed earlier this year.

Linford Donovan, Marjorie Doolittle, Doris Rohr, Sophie Harpe, Janet Bryce Wilson and Jessie MacGregor collaborated on preparations and service for the punch-and-buffet party. The women were also responsible for the attractive buffet table and its spring decorations, with floral arrangements of daffodils and mimosa.

For the benefit of members who were unable to attend Sunday's party, a similar event is being planned for later this spring at the gallery.

Prowells Plan Bon Voyage

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Prowell (Margaretta Park) have issued nearly 200 invitations to a sort of hall and farewell party at their home in Carmel Highlands Saturday night.

The "hail" part celebrates Bill's graduation from the Chinese Department at the Army Language School, while the "farewell" comes in the fact that in two weeks the Prowells will be leaving the Peninsula, which has been their home since their marriage last October. And in two months, the Prowells will be temporarily leaving each other, each to travel halfway around the world before meeting in the Far East, where Bill has been assigned for duty.

Taking advantage of Bill's long furlough before he has to report for overseas shipment, the Prowells will leave here March 16 for a holiday in Mexico and a visit with his mother and brother in Lyon, Mississippi. Early in May, they'll arrive in Seattle and Margy will wave goodbye to Bill as he sails for the Orient.

Margy, whose mother is Mrs. Helen Park Clark of Carmel, can't join her husband at his new post for nearly nine months. So instead of waiting out the reunion here, she plans to take a ship from San Francisco to Belgium and embark on a leisurely tour of Europe, the Near East and the Orient. Her travels will end in Tokyo, where she and Bill will meet next fall. They'll make their home somewhere in Japan or vicinity until he completes his hitch with the Army.

Mills Club Meeting

The Monterey Bay Area Mills Club will hold a meeting on Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock here at the home of Mrs. Colden O. Whitman.

This will be an informal gathering for coffee and business. Mrs. W. E. McLaughlin and Mrs. Richard Wolfe, both of Hollister, will give a report on the Alumnae Council Meeting which they recently attended on the Mills College Campus in Oakland. Also Miss Evelyn Sharpe, Student Recommendation Chairman, will give a report.

Assisting Mrs. Whitman as hostesses will be Mrs. Norman L. Bennett of Monterey and Mrs. Stafford Hughes of Carmel.

All Mills Alumnae in the Watsonville-Hollister-King City - Monterey Bay Area are welcome to attend.

Nancie's Home

Nancie Brown is home again with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Brown and recuperating nicely after an operation recently at the Franklin Hospital in San Francisco. Her theatrical work has been curtailed for the time being in deference to the general prescription for plenty of rest and quiet.

Taylor's Fete First 20 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Taylor entertained a crowd of their local friends Saturday evening at a cocktail party celebrating Bert's 20th year in the contracting business in Carmel. Over 100 guests were present for the occasion, which took place from 5:00 to 7:00 at the Taylors' home near the Mission.

Assisting in preparations for the party were Mrs. Taylor's sister, Miss Peggy Timmons, and Frank Palms, while Art McKee was responsible for the handsome flower arrangements which decorated the Taylor home.

Shower for Grace Colburn

Grace Colburn will be the guest of honor at a luncheon to be given tomorrow noon by Lily Smith, Loli Willox and Kathy Conlan at the latter's home in Carmel. The occasion will be a stork shower in anticipation of the small new Colburn, who is expected to join Grace and her painter husband Sam in the not too distant future.

Peninsula matrons who have been invited to the buffet-and-daiquiri affair are Virginia Blair Hannon, Barbara Wasserman, Ann Read, Carol Brown, Mimi Klene, Barbara Hunter, Marsha Minshall, Jane Vial, Craig Weston, Marie Short, Peggy Short, Lois Street, Charlotte Stone, Patty Stephenson, Betty MacDonald and the honoree's mother, Dorothy Meredith.

Kings Back From Holiday

Mr. and Mrs. George King of Rancho San Carlos returned Sunday from a two-week vacation in the Southwest and Mexico. The Kings, who were accompanied by their granddaughter, Lynne Stalker of San Leandro, first visited Palm Springs and Tucson, both of which they found cold, and then Hermosillo, Mexico, where they visited the missions and the weather continued uncomfortably brisk. Continuing on to Guaymas, it was too cold even for fishing. So they headed back for California, stopping off in Pasadena to visit Mr. King's sister, and are now finding the familiar Carmel Valley sunshine as good as any to be had this time of year.

Norberg Compares Democracies

Freedom under the democracies of Sweden and the United States was discussed by Gunnar Norberg at Tuesday's meeting of the Carmel Lions Club. Norberg, who is of Scandinavian descent and who has visited Sweden, brought out that the much-touted democracy of Sweden pales by comparison with ours. This was illustrated in five points: 1, that Sweden has freedom "on paper" but ours is a "real freedom"; 2, that Sweden presumably has religious freedom, but actually has a state church; 3, that Sweden has no antitrust laws like ours to protect it from monopolies; 4, though supposedly Democratic, a strong caste system actually exists in Sweden; 5, that we have a single language, where Sweden has many.

Two former Lions were reinstated into the club: Joe Oenning and Ernest Bixler.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone.

Reserve Officers Meeting

All members of the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the Reserve Officers Association are invited to a tri-chapter meeting in conjunction with ROA groups from Salinas and San Jose to be held this weekend at the Naval Postgraduate School.

Business meetings will be held Saturday from 2:00 to 5:00, and Sunday at 11:00 o'clock. Presiding will be Lt. Col. Thomas D. Scally, Bay Area lawyer and Department of California president of ROA.

Highlight of the two-day meeting will be a dinner dance Saturday night, open to all reserve officers, guests and prospective members. Itinerary for the evening will be cocktails from 6:30, entertainment from 7:30 to 8:00, steak dinner at 8:00 o'clock and dancing from 9:00 on. Reservations may be obtained from Major Edgar Leslie, 5-4151; Capt. Cecil Murphree, 2-4557; or Capt. John D. Gates, 5-4283.

Two Parties for Mardi

Mardi Lloyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd, celebrated her 11th birthday Saturday night by inviting a houseful of her young neighbors and school friends to a dance party held at her home in Carmel Highlands.

It was actually the second birthday event for Mardi, since last week she presided over a special dessert party for her favorite adults. Those who shared Mardi's birthday cake (chocolate all the way, prepared on request by Mrs. Lloyd), were Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Doner, Dr. and Mrs. Russell Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Laidlaw Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kahn, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lofton and Mr. and Mrs. John Nesbitt. There was also a junior contingent present, consisting of four small Nesbitts, two Loftons, three Kahns, three Williamses (Russell) and two Williamses (Laidlaw), and a Doner.

William Plein

William Plein, a Carmel resident for 37 years, died Tuesday in a local hospital following an extended illness. He was 77.

A native of Germany, Mr. Plein was born in the Rhineland, October 30, 1877, and was a carpenter by trade, until his retirement some years ago. His home was at Lincoln and Sixth.

He leaves his wife, Harriet Plein of Carmel; three daughters, Mrs. Arline Woods of Carmel and Mrs. Theora Foster and Mrs. Maureen Foster of Carmel Valley; a brother, Paul Plein of Saskatchewan, Canada; a sister, Mrs. Lizzie Klaren of Long Beach; and seven grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 8:30 o'clock Friday night at the Dorney and Farlinger Memorial Chapel. Requiem Mass will be celebrated at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning at Carmel Mission, preceded by brief funeral rites at Dorney and Farlinger. Burial will be in the Catholic section of Mission Memorial Park.

Mattiwillda Dobbs, the American coloratura soprano who has been touring Europe the past three seasons, will appear in concert on the Carmel Music Society Series at Sunset Auditorium, Monday evening, March 7.

Last spring she returned from triumphs at Milan's La Scala, in Vienna, Paris, the Glyndebourne Festival and Covent Garden. While in England she sang at the Edinburgh Festival and, at the request of Queen Elizabeth II, headed a Gala Performance before the British Royal Family and the King and Queen of Sweden at London's Royal Opera.

Born in Atlanta, Miss Dobbs received her first musical training in this country, and later studied abroad under scholarships from Marian Anderson and John Hay Whitney. Her winning of the grand prize in singing at the Geneva International Competition in 1950 first brought her international notice.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Man's God-given dominion over fear, disease and discord will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Man" will include the following from Psalms (8:4,6): "What is man, that thou art mindful of him? and the son of man, that thou visitest him?... Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of thy hands; thou hast put all things under his feet."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the following passage will be among those read (228:11-15): "The enslavement of man is not legitimate. It will cease when man enters into his heritage of freedom, his God-given dominion over the material senses. Mortals will some day assert their freedom in the name of Almighty God."

The Golden Text is from Ecclesiastes (7:29): "Lo, this only have I found, that God had made man upright."

PADRES DROP PAIR TO PG

Pacific Grove's lightweight and varsity basketball teams turned the tables on the Carmel High squads last Friday night as they jolted the Carmel lads in a pair of league tilts which had a decided bearing on league titles in both divisions. Carmel had upset the Breakers in an earlier meeting at the Padre gym but the return matches turned out in favor of the red and gold Breakers. Captain Bill McCormack and his scrappy lightweight squad gave the Grove court artists a real battle before bowing, 52 to 49, and actually outscored the winners from the floor, hitting for 20 field goals while the hosts were meshing 15. However, the Wavelets cashed in on their charity tosses, sinking 22 from the free-throw line.

The double win for the Pacific Grove squads netted them a clear championship in the lightweight division and earned a tie with Gilroy for the varsity flag. Little Gonzales High did the Breakers a real favor by downing King City in an overtime thriller to drop the Mustangs from a first-place tie with Pacific Grove and Gilroy.

Carmel's lightweight gang started off with a sizzling first quarter and zipped to an 18-6 lead as Bill McCormack, Mervyn Sutton and Jim Konrad hit with amazing accuracy. The hustling Breaker Babes came back with a rush in the second period, scoring 24 points to go into the intermission on the short end of a 32-30 score. The Little Padres stayed in front until midway of the final period when PG's Garcia caught fire and pushed the Wavelets in front, 46 to 45, with less than five minutes to play. Trading baskets the rest of the way left the Pacific Grove Babes in front with a thrilling 52-49 win over the hard-trying Carmel gang.

Outshot, beaten on the boards, and snowed under by the Breaker speed, the Carmel varsity was out of the running at the end of the first quarter. With Cal Moldenhauer, Ed Estaban, and Larry Quentel leading a blistering fast-break attack, the Breakers were in front 12-10 at the end of the first period and had increased the margin to 28-14 at the end of the first half. Exceptional backboard control by Quentel and Mike Moss limited the Padres to one shot at their basket and assured the Breakers of ball control on their fast break. The red and grey hoopsters were having their troubles locating the hoop, hitting for only 21% of their attempts and cashing in on 7 free-throws in 16 chances. Mike Mosolf's 9 points topped the Padre scorers, but it was the accurate shooting of Bob Wise, reserve center, which sparked the last-ditch surge for the Carmel gang. In action for only three minutes, the slender pivot-man canned three field goals and made good on one charity toss for a fine seven-point effort.

3-Day Hoop Tourney Starts Today With Gonzales vs. Gilroy

all-senior aggregation, thoroughly seasoned and a rugged opponent for any high school team. Carmel will start tournament play with a quintet of John Farrell and Paul Fratessa, forwards, Mike Mosolf and Captain Gary Nielsen, guards, and George Wightman, center.

The invading Gustine Indians from the San Joaquin Valley will test the Pacific Grove Breakers in tonight's final game at 9:00 o'clock.

Friday's play matches the winners against winners, and losers against losers of tonight's games. On Saturday night, six teams will play to decide a consolation winner, for third place, and for the championship. Trophies and individual awards will be presented following the final game on Saturday night.

Bargain rates prevail for this basketball festival with tournament adult tickets for the three days' action going for $1.50, student tournament tickets for 75c, single day adult tickets $1.00, and single day student tickets for 50c.

Seance Conductors Receive Probation

Both E. O. Kemp of San Francisco and Verne Cole of Lower Carmel Valley pleaded guilty to charges of holding a seance and charging a fee in violation of a county ordinance and were admitted to probation for one year by Monterey Municipal Judge Ray Baugh.

Kemp, who was the "medium", pleaded guilty on February 24, the day after the seance was interrupted by a raiding party from the district attorney's office. Cole at first pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for February 28. On that day, however, he changed his plea and received the same sentence with the condition that they both act in strict compliance of the county law with no repetition of such meetings.

The seance took place last Thursday night at a building on the Hatton Ranch at the entrance to the Valley. William Gleason, investigator for the district attorney's office, accompanied by sheriff's deputies interrupted the meeting. There were more than a dozen spectators and participants in the group.

Letter To The Editor

Carmel, California
February 24, 1955

Editor
Carmel Pine Cone
Carmel, Calif.

Dear Sir:

On January 24th last E. V. Durling, the columnist of the S.F. Examiner, wrote:

"Tallulah Bankhead is named after a waterfall in Alabama. It is claimed she is the only woman in U.S.A. named Tallulah."

Indignant classmates of Tallulah LeConte (Mrs. J. Arthur) Elston of Carmel, '04 graduate of the University of California, and daughter of the late Joseph LeConte, world famous head of the U.C. Geology Dept., wrote Mr. Durling, their beloved Tallulah was so named years before Miss Tallulah Bankhead. Mr. Durling's belated correction in the Examiner of February 23rd is inclosed for your information.

No Carmelite is going to see a good neighbor take the count from a columnist.

Etymology of Tallulah: Cherokee Indian for "terrible", which might have fitted the Falls in Alabama but is a misnomer for our gentle friend in Carmel.

Cordially,
Constant Reader
F. J. P.

Mr. Durling's correction:

Tallulah Bankhead, the intensely whimsical/Broadwayite, is fond of claiming she was named after a waterfall. And that she was the first girl in this country named Tallulah. There were girls named Tallulah in this country before Miss Bankhead was born. For example, Tallulah le Conte Elston, distinguished resident of Carmel, Calif.

The Needler

By Beth

Mrs. Ivan Tweedie stole a march on the official Red Cross fund drive now in progress. She covered her own territory as a volunteer worker on the day before the drive opened, turned in her reports and collections in time to check in at the Peninsula Community Hospital for an operation. We admire both her courage and public spirit.

I am told that one noontime, early this week, a touristy looking gentleman with a camera slung on his shoulder was crossing the intersection at Sixth and Dolores when he suddenly stopped in his tracks, stared due west and was heard to say in a veddy British accent: "Oh, I say, is that the blinkin' Pacific Ocean?"

Larry Rose is going around town this week with his right hand swathed in bandages because of an unfortunate cake-baking accident. Melting sugar spattered from a pot and burned him painfully, but despite the accident he says the cake was delicious. He has made two others that turned out fairly well, despite the tendency of the layers to have a bit of a starboard list. He is not giving up and feels that one of these days he will turn out a culinary masterpiece. Larry collects taxes and licenses for the city, as you probably know. Aside from his cake-baking hobby, he is also a sports car enthusiast, being president of the Pebble Beach Sports Car Club.

each Tuesday and Thursday night from 7:00 to 9:00 o'clock at Monterey Peninsula College.

The classes are divided into two periods, with Mr. Oakes speaking for the first hour and guest speakers taking over the lecture for the second hour to discuss specific aspects of salesmanship. Tuesday night's visiting pundit was Fletcher Dutton, expert in business management, who compared the old and new theories of economics. Tonight's speaker will be Rollo Payne, co-manager of Reynolds & Company and member of the New York Stock Exchange, who will discuss stocks, bonds and investments.

Ken Ray, insurance broker and vice-president of the Monterey Bay Life Insurance Underwriters, will give a practical sales demonstration at the class meeting Tuesday. Former commercial engineer and executive Howard Ireland of Carmel will discuss What a Sales Manager Expects of a Salesman next Thursday. Dr. Jesse F. Williams, physical education expert, will speak March 15.

Teaching More Exciting Than Lion Hunting

Grath. Their teaching in government schools took them from Kampala in Central Africa to Johannesburg in South Africa. They have taught both whites and Negroes, but it was with the latter that they feel they had the most rewarding experiences.

Miss Eastwood has devoted most of her time training young native girls as nurses. She and her sister, who found her most interesting experience was teaching Negro girls in a domestic arts college in Uganda, agree that the native students, most of them from tribal villages and with parents who had had no formal education, were intelligent and eager to learn.

Having learned the dialects, (the sisters conducted many of their classes in the native language) Miss McGrath and Miss Eastwood found that they were quickly accepted as friends by the natives and thus had the chance to observe and learn much about tribal laws, rituals and folklore at first hand. Much of their experience has been incorporated by Miss Eastwood into a book to be published in London and New York this fall, and which she started writing while still in Africa.

Living in Africa has its own exotic flavor, and the sisters have a wealth of adventures to relate. They've joined whole native villages on lion hunts: "No guns," remembers Miss Eastwood, "just spears and dogs. Everybody joined in the hunt, even the women and children, since the lion was liable to double back on the village during the chase." In Uganda, which is right on the shores of Lake Victoria, they've seen herds of wild elephants demolish everything in their path as they headed for water. They've gone big game hunting with white hunters, and each has bagged several trophies.

Their acquaintance extended to such tribes as the Bagunda, who have a rich tribal culture and whose king Miss Eastwood knew when he was a boy; the stately Masai, all exceeding six feet in height; the Biama, "wonderful people, truly Egyptian features." They found tribal law fascinating. The chiefs still call witnesses and dispense justice, though they no longer have the power of life and death or of inflicting corporal punishment. The system of tribal law, operating under and in coordination with the government, works very well indeed, they feel.

The sisters separated temporarily during the war, Miss McGrath remaining in Africa while her sister returned to England to be with their family. After the war they both worked in Johannesburg, and in 1951 Margaret McGrath left Africa for the States. She worked for a time in Southern California, graduated from a Travel Counselor Training Course in Santa Barbara, and last July was joined by her sister.

Margaret McGrath and Catherine Eastwood came to Carmel in much the same way that they originally went to Africa—it mostly just happened. They've found a pleasant apartment, and Miss McGrath plans to do dressmaking, while her sister will concentrate on writing and secretarial work. Whether or not the tribal customs of Carmel will prove as fascinating as those of Africa remains to be seen. In any case, the sisters are cheerfully becoming adapted to Carmel life, and apparently enjoying it very much indeed.

PARTY HONORS

MISS NILES, MRS. THORNBURG

Over 150 friends and well-wishers gathered at the Carmel Library Sunday afternoon for a reception honoring retiring librarian Elizabeth Niles and introducing her successor, Mrs. Ruth Thornburg. The party was arranged by the library board, whose members presented the two honorees with corsages, welcomed the guests and served punch and cookies. Board Chairman Clayton Neill, on behalf of the board and the library staff, presented Miss Niles with a handsome green leather traveling case as a farewell gift.
